Important

To help you fill in this form use Child Benefit - Getting your claim right (CH2 Notes). These notes also contain important information that you should read. Please answer all the questions that apply to you and send us all the documents we ask for. If you don't, we may need to get in touch with you which could delay your claim. If you need more help or information, please go to www.hmrc.gov.uk/childbenefit or phone our helpline on 0845 302 1444 or textphone on 0845 302 1474.

State Pension

Filling in this form helps to ensure that you are registered to receive National Insurance credits if you have a child under 12 and either look after the child at home, or work but don't earn enough to pay National Insurance contributions. These 'credits' can help to protect your State Pension.

The information below only applies to you if your or your partner's individual income is more than £50,000 a year. If it does not apply, please go straight to Page 2 and fill in this claim form.

Important change if you or your partner have an individual income of more than £50,000 a year

From 7 January 2013 if either you or your partner have an individual income of more than £50,000 a year, then the partner with the higher income will have to pay a High Income Child Benefit Charge on some, or all, of the Child Benefit you receive. If these changes apply to you or your partner you should jointly decide whether to stop getting Child Benefit payments, and not have to pay a tax charge, or continue getting Child Benefit payments and declare them for tax purposes.

Filling in the Child Benefit claim form also ensures that you are registered to receive National Insurance credits which can help to protect your State Pension. It is therefore really important to fill in the form if you have a new child in your family even if you do not wish to receive the Child Benefit payments. Part 4 of this claim form lets you tell us if you want to be paid Child Benefit.

1. I have an income between £50,000 and £60,000. Should I still claim and be paid my Child Benefit?

The tax charge applies at a rate of 1% of the Child Benefit paid for every £100 of income over £50,000. If you or your partner have an individual income between £50,000 and £60,000 the tax charge will be less than the total amount of Child Benefit so you might like to keep getting Child Benefit payments and declare them for Income Tax purposes.

2. I have an income of more than £60,000. Should I still claim, even if I don't want to be paid Child Benefit and not pay the tax charge?

If you or your partner have an individual income of more than £60,000 the tax charge will be equal to the total amount of Child Benefit so you might wish to stop receiving payments and not have to pay a tax charge. But it is really important to fill in the Child Benefit form if you have a new child in your family.

Completing the Child Benefit claim form ensures you are registered to receive National Insurance credits which can help to protect your State Pension and help your child get their National Insurance number.
